INSTRUCTIONS: There are FOUR (4) parts to this Section: A, B, C, D.

Spend about ONE hour on this Section.

Part A: Read the passage below to answer Questions 1-7.

"MYTH BUSTED: Friday the 13th" by Christine Dell'amore

- Maybe you refuse to open an umbrella inside your house or walk under a ladder that's on a sidewalk. These are superstitions, or a belief that something bad will happen even if there's no reason to think that it will.
- ² One big superstition many people have is that Friday the 13th is an unlucky day. Happening up to three times a year depending on the calendar, the day seems to make people more careful or avoid things they usually aren't afraid to do. In fact, experts think so many people skip work on Friday the 13th that businesses can lose hundreds of millions of dollars! Of course, no one can prove that more misfortune takes place on Friday the 13th. We just tend to notice it more if bad things happen on that day. But if Friday the 13th is only a superstition, why do people actually believe in it? No one knows for sure, but experts have some clues.

Origin story

- ³ It's hard to know exactly when Friday the 13th became thought of as unlucky, but it likely comes from the Christian religion. For example, in the Bible, Judas—a person who is said to have betrayed Jesus—was the 13th guest at the Last Supper. Also in the Bible, many unfortunate things happened on Fridays. So it made sense that people who read the Bible got nervous around Friday the 13th.
- ⁴ It's also possible that 13 is considered "cursed" because it's the number after 12, which many people see as a number that completes things. Think about it—12 months are in a year, 12 inches in a foot, 12 pairs of ribs in a body, etc. So it's possible the number 13 makes people uneasy because it causes them to think about the unknown—beyond the number 12.

Around the world

In other countries, Friday the 13th isn't unlucky. For instance, in Spain, Tuesday the 13th is considered the day to dread. And in Italy, people fear the 17th day of any month. Why? Because the Roman numeral XVII (17) can be rearranged to spell "VIXI," which means "my life is over" in Latin. But, like in many countries, no one can prove that more terrible things occur on those days, either.

Back to reality

- ⁶ People who are super afraid on Friday the 13th might have a condition called triskaidekaphobia (pronounced trihs-keye-dek-uh-FOE-bee-uh), which is a fear of the number 13. (Any extreme or irrational fear of something is called a phobia). The word comes from ancient Greek and translates to "fear of the number 13."
- ⁷ For most people, being afraid of Friday the 13th is just a superstition, something that we can have fun pretending to fear because we know, well, there's really nothing to fear. But if you want to cross your fingers just in case, that's fine too!

On Joining Pasifika (for Jo)

When I first met you
we were learning to siva
wearing lavalava tied in awkward knots
our work clothes carefully folded away
both of us
learning a new dance
both of us
finding a different way to move through life

We have hustled and bustled and power-walked well somehow sacrificing the grace and ease of movement our grandmothers held in their hands

When we met both of us were trying to remember that earlier beat

Both of us trying to reclaim a new dance from old memories both of us standing shyly in the back-row trying to siva in our sports socks both of us searching for a rhythm we'd never quite been able to find within ourselves

All of us trying to find time to ta'olunga to meke to tamule to siva into our truest selves

POEMS:

'Pick our fruit'

Dear Australian Deputy PM Michael McCormack,

Your fruit grows on lands that does not belong to you

Your fruit is grown with the phosphate taken from the Islands of Nauru and Banaba where they can no longer bear fruit

Your fruit had been picked by a generation of Pacific slaves

Your fruit grows in abundance because you have taken ours.

Yuki Kihara

'Your best'

If you always try your best Then you'll never have to wonder About what you could have done If you'd summoned all your thunder

And if your best Was not as good As you hoped it would be, You still could say, "I gave today All that I had in me."

Barbara Vance

'To become educated'

Long, sleepless nights Tiring brain wracking days Pit stop – a quick cuppa back to the table mess of homework, assignments internal assessments. exercises, The Lot!

> Rushing around Nerves on end To complete, to hand it in Lest it be disqualified Oh! Such a waste Of sacrifice. In the end a smile, A life, a yippee! You have done it! You graduate.

The stress, the agony, The suffering vanish In the sheer bliss Of becoming educated.

Fualuga T. L. Savai'inaea

'Sometimes...'

Sometimes...

I wish I were

A beautiful butterfly...

Soaring above

The tall trees and floating clouds

Able to see...

The beauty of all the earth.

Sometimes...

I wish I were

A playful dolphin...

Swimming across the calm blue oceans

Without a care in the world

Wishing that there would always be peace on earth
